BACKGROUND & CONNECTIONS

BACKGROUND

Broke the jaw of Aldric Vane, son of the Faydark watch captain, when he was beating a woman. The woman would not speak up for her, and Killam fled Faydark at midnight with the watch on her heels.

PERSONALITY

Brave, blunt and quick to defend the weak. Merciful when she can afford to be, unforgiving to those who would sell her out.

GEAR & LODGING

Hand axe, trapper's hatchet, old pistol with powder and shot, studded leather armor, riding horse with saddle and saddlebags, bedroll, waterskin, a few days of food. Corrin's crossbow and bolt case, and the watch's warrant for her. The trapper's clothes (soaked) and a black-dyed disguise.

Money: carries the party's purse.

Lodging: Mother Corvane's hut in the Hollow Wood.

ENEMIES

Captain Vane and the Faydark watch: 20 silver bounty on her, alive. Riders sweeping the woods.

Aldric Vane: the captain's son, jaw broken.

Hob: watchman who fled home from the ford.

FRIENDS & CONTACTS

Petor: her childhood friend, who followed her into exile. Now her lover.

Mother Corvane: the Crow Witch. Debt paid; she now owes them.

Merra: Corvane's granddaughter; Killam pulled her out of the Vane cellar.

Scratch: Corvane's crow. The she-wolf and her pups.

NOTES

Deeds: knocked out Corrin; pried open a bear trap; cut down the blackmailing trapper. Session 3: decoyed and clubbed Wat at the ford; hid his body and the camp; slipped silently into Faydark; freed Merra through the cellar grate.
